"I welcome you," he said, "into a profession whose great lights have always been the champions of human liberty. The haven of the lawyer's course is ever justice—something which he may never find, but for which he always searches. The lawyer's work is as broad as the world, for somewhere justice is, and somewhere she may be found. I welcome you into a profession whose watchword is fidelity, whose quest is justice and every court room is her temple. As a study law is a science, but in gractice law is an art, and too frequently the lawyer loses sight of the importance of becoming learned."

EXCURSIONS.

The first of the special excursions to Fortress Monroe, Virginia Beach, Norfolk and Portsmouth to be given by the Norfolk and Washington Steamboat Company during the summer season is scheduled for tomorrow evening. One of the company's elegant steamers will leave 7th street wharf at 6:30 p.m., arriving at Fortress Monroe and its nearby resorts early Sunday morning, and reaching this city on the return trip in ample time for business on Monday. The fare for the round trip this special Saturday evening excursion is reduced to the same low rate that was in effect during the entire summer last year. Now that hot days are here in earnest these trips will doubtless leap into instant popularity, for they are certainly among the attractive outlings that one can enjoy. They give two nights on the water in the cool, salty breezes, and the entire day Sunday in which to enjoy the fine surf bath-ing, fishing and boating at Fortress Monroe and Virginia Beach.

Those who want to spend a pleasant Sun-day away from the heat of the city and withal have a "tiptop" time at a small expense should take the trip tomorrow evening at 6 o'clock on the popular and fast-salling steamer T. V. Arrowsmith for Colonial Beach. The fishing, crabbing and bathlar at this rate. lonial Beach. The fishing, crabbing and bathing at this salt water resort is excellent, while the accommodations on the steamer are first class in every respect. The steamer will leave 7th street wharf promptly at 6 o'clock Saturday evening, and returning reach home Sunday night about 10 o'clock.

Arlington is certainly one place where it is cool and pleasant even on hot days. Situated on the high Virginia bluffs overlooking the city, with the Potomac river flowing by, it is swept by refreshing breezes when by, it is swept by refreshing breezes when the air is still and sultry in the city. There are few places near Washington where Sunday may be more pleasantly spent than have beautiful national cemetery, and at the beautiful national cemetery, and Sunday is very popular, because the Wash-ington, Alexandria and Mount Vernon railway reduces the regular fare for the round trip on that day. On clear Sundays this company runs extra trains every forty-five minutes in addition to the regular service Trains leave the station at 13% street and Pennsylvania avenue and run direct to Arlington, making the only stop at the Mc-Clellan and Sheridan gates, which are within easy reaching distance of the graves of the soldiers who died during the late war.

Those who wish to escape a hot evening in the city and who desire rest and quiet most of all will find that the ride to Mar-shall Hall and Indian Head on the steamer Charles Macalester leaves little to be desired. The evenings on the water are always cool, the sunsets are magnificent and the river breezes are most welcome after the hot, sultry days in the city. But there are many who board the Macalester every Thursday, Friday and Saturday evening who are not satisfied with such a trip. Marshall Hall, with its many amusements, Marshall Hall, with its many amusements, is their objective point. Dancing is as popular as ever, and Prof. Schroeder's Band plays all the popular new music. The steamer Charles Macalester leaves 7th street wharf every Thursday, Friday and Saturday evening at 6:30 o'clock. Steamer leaves for Mount Vernon and Marshall Hall leaves for Mount Vernon and Marshail Hall on week days at 10 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

The electric cars which run to Falls Church provide a very economical means of spending a pleasant evening. They run through a very pretty portion of Virginia, through coel woodlands, away from the distance of the city and the high dust and heat of the city, and the high rate of speed at which the cars travel insures brisk breezes during the entire rid: These cars also run direct to Arfington without change, stopping at the main entrance to the beautiful national cemetery. Electric cars leave the Aqueduct bridge every half hour for Arlington, Fort Myer, Ballston, Fostoria, Falls Church and intermediate points.

BLAMES SECRETARY ALGER.

Rev. Mr. Crafts Charges Him With War on the Anti-Canteen Law. A few days ago the Reform Bureau, national society having headquarters here with Rev. Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts in charge as superintendent, sent to Secretary Alger a published collection of "Opinions of the Alger-Griggs Canteen Opinion."

The circular was accompanied by a letter asking a reconsideration of the order by which the War Department continued in instead of suppressing the canteen, "with no change required except a change of bartenders," and even that, the bureau declares, is not enforced. Mr. Crafts received the following reply:

"Dear Sir: I have your letter of the 29th ultime. The power of the Secretary of War in the matter you refer to is no greater than

To this Mr. Crafts, 210 Delaware avenue northeast, Washington, D. C."

To this Mr. Crafts replied at length, intimating that the influence of Secretary Alger had been thrown against the anti-canteen bill while it was in Congress and declaring that after it had become a law he had promulgated an official construction of the law which had entirely nullified its efthe law which had entirely nullified its ef fect. The opinion of Attorney General Griggs interpreting the law in a similar way

I submit to you and to the American people that if you had followed the natural and usual procedure of an executive you would have sent out the law of Congress just as it was enacted, with no hint of evasion or doubtful construction, and have left any question to be raised, as is usual, in court procedure on its enforcement by some one who resisted its natural meaning. This would have given the natural meaning the right of way during the test in the

THOUGHT IT WAS FUNK. Citizen Gives Information Upon

Which Arrests Were Made. Two young men natives of Denmark were called upon at the room of one of them yesterday afternoon by Detectives Tayman and Gallaher and were asked to take a walk to police headquarters. "We have done nothing," said one of the men, "and we have nothing to fear."

They went with the officers without mak ing an objection. Report had been made of the alleged sus picious conduct of the young men. One of them, it was stated, had occupied the room in which he was found for about a month

The fact that he spent so much time in his room and was visited by his friend, who wore an army uniform, was considered sus picious. "I got a glimpse of the man who occupied the room," said a citizen, "and for good reasons I thought it might be Frank Funk. Funk is the man who is wanted for the street a year ago.

It was the suggestion of the citizen tha the arrest could be made late at night to better advantage than if made in the day time, and Inspector Boardman made arrangements to have the house watched and the arrest made last night. A picture of Frank Funk was shown the man who made the complaint, and he was more convinced than ever that the stranger was Funk. Instead of waiting until night, however, the detectives were sent to the house about 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon and both me were found. The occupant of the room a student, who spends considerable time the Congressional Library, and the man is uniform is one of Uncle Sam's soldiers Being natives of the same country and friends, they were frequently together. I so happens that the young man is a mu sician and his nights have been spent play ing on the violin. He had an idea that the police had called on him because his music had annoyed the neighbors. The police saw that a mistake had been made, and

ABOLITION OF CROSSINGS.

Terms of Agreement Between Commissioners and Railroads. By an agreement made between the District Commissioners and the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Comjourned to September 5. The exercises em- panies, the grade crossings at Deanwood and Sheriff road will be shortly abolished. Hereafter there will be no crossing at the Deanwood station, and at the Sheriff road

This underground roadway will be sixty topics and those discussing them were as feet in width, one-half to be used by the follows: Mohammedan religion, Mrs. A. C. extension of the Columbia railway, and the other by the public, a brick dividing wall to be erected. The underground cross-ing will not be exactly where the Sheriff road now crosses the two railroads, but a short distance south of the Sheriff road, which latter road will be diverted to the underground crossing. Therefore, the pres ent grade crossings at Deanwood and Sheriff road will be abandoned. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company and

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company and the Columbia Railroad Company have do-nated a strip of land southeast of and parallel to the tracks for the public road, which will be made necessary by the abandonment of the two grade crossings. Here tofore, in order to reach the Sheriff road from Anacostia, it has been necessary to cross the railroad tracks at Deanwood, and the arrangement made with the railroads will render this unnecessary, giving by the new public road a more direct and shorter connection from the Anacostia road with the Sheriff road. The public road to the west of the railroad tracks, nearest the Washington Jockey Club grounds, will, of course, be maintained.

MAY PROVE TO BE FATAL. One Colored Man Assaults Another With Screwdriver.

pecial Correspondence of The Evening Star.

HYATTSVILLE Md., June 9, 1890. What is likely to be a fatal cutting affray ccurred last evening at the residence of Mr. Addison Smith, who lives about half a mile north of this village. The facts in the case are said to be that Button Johnson and another colored man named Little oecame involved in an altercation at the home of Mr. F. E. Baukhages, where both mer were employed to do chores about the place The quarrel was subsequently renewed and Little claims that Johnson, without any provocation, attacked him with a sharp screwdriver. The man was fearfully cut about the head and face, and in some un-accountable way the instrument was forced down Little's throat, making a fearful wound. Drs. Richardson and Wells attend-ed the wounded man and considered his condition as serious. Johnson made his escape after the cutting, and had not been pprehended at last accounts today. Mr. George Dorr of this village lost a val table horse yesterday from the effects, it is supposed, of poison. The animal was urned out to pasture early in the morning in apparently good health, and a few hours ter was in a dying condition. It is sup gosed some malicious person scattered parls green in the field where the horse was turned in. This is the third animal that
